Weekly Market Letter.

Honolulu, December 20, 1915.
Island eggs are a little more plentiful than they have been for some time and the price has dropped 5 cents in the market. There will be good sale for eggs and all kinds of poultry during the Christmas holidays.
Practically all vegetables are higher than usual. Cabbage is more plentiful and a little cheaper, but sweet corn is selling at a premium.
During the last few days limes have been very scarce, where they were plentiful two weeks ago. Island oranges are being received in large quantities and are meeting a good sale.
The price of live hogs is still low. It is probable that a large number of sucking pigs will be sold during the holidays. Dressed meats are bringing the same as last week.
Hides are selling at the highest mark this year.

Supt. Terr. Mktg. Div.

C. R. COLLINS DIES SUDDENLY.

Charles R. Collins, a kamaaina in the Islands, and for several years a resident of Maui, died suddenly at 7:30 o'clock last Saturday morning, in the drive way of the Maui Soda & Ice Works, Wailuku. Death was due to heart trouble, from which the deceased had long been a sufferer. He was 51 years of age, and is survived by a wife and son. The body was taken to Honolulu on Saturday evening, where the funeral was held.

Mr. Collins had been in his usual health, and at the time he was stricken was standing conversing with R. A. Wadsworth. He was suddenly choked by a rush of blood into his throat, and within a few minutes he was unconscious and died before a physician could arrive.

The deceased was born in London, England, and came to Hawaii about thirty-three years ago. He was a harness maker by trade and for many years conducted business in Honolulu, Hilo, Kahului and Wailuku. His mother, Mrs. Eliza Collins, and two brothers, J. R. Collins and Leonard J. Collins, are residents of Honolulu.

During the several years he had been on Maui, he had spent a part of his time in Kula, where his wife is living on a homestead.
